NEW CLASSES BEING FORMED AT MUSEUM

Students from 13 to 17 years of age who are interested in learning about the graphic arts will have an opportunity to do so at The Cleveland Museum of Art beginning June 19. Classes will be held there on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. through July 25.

Print making techniques, press operation and graphic arts of the past will be considered. Familiarity with basic techniques will be stressed and an experimental approach to the artistic possibilities of the media will be emphasized.

Young people of high school age are eligible for the SEMINAR IN MODERN ART. Main trends in the art of the 19th and 20th centuries, including the development of the film as an art form will be studied. Classes will begin on June 23 and continue through July 28, Saturdays from 10:30 to 12 noon and ~~and~~ ^{From} 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. Films will be reviewed.

Registration is necessary for both classes. For information call or write the Education Department, GARfield 1-7340, Extension 328 and 329.
